FOREWORD

In presenting this Exhibition of Jewish Art to the public, the organizers are aware of considerable omissions. Because of the difficulty in securing their works, many artists are not included, such as Mark Antokolsky of Russia, Mauritzzy Gotlieb of Poland, Ernst Josephson of Sweden, etc.

It is, however, to a large degree representative in that it includes not merely contributions from the last 150 years, but demonstrates a high degree of coherence and unity in temperament and treatment.

While Jewish Art historians are still busy over the problem of what is and what is not Jewish Art, the more immediate task of collecting information about Jewish Artists and the whereabouts of their works has been left undone. This lack of information has been one of the major difficulties which the organizers of the exhibition had to overcome, for they had as one of their chief aims the gathering together of a collection as varied as possible in order to show the many facets of Jewish Art.

Attention should be drawn to the fact that this is also the first fully illustrated catalogue of Jewish Artists' work ever to be produced. It was our intention to have one illustration from each artist, but it was not possible to secure all the necessary photographs in time. Absence of reproduction is therefore not a reflection on the merit of the artist.
